History Harvest is an open, digital library of artifacts gathered from communities across the world. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Digital Library of the Americas, in partnership with institutions and individuals worldwide, is working to collect, preserve, and share the world's collective history. Undergraduates lead the History Harvest team, and digitize these artifacts and stories. History Harvest is more diverse than any other digital library because people give credit for and that means that the artifacts are in archives, historical societies, museums, or rather in the stories that ordinary people tell about their own experience and in the things that people keep and collect to tell their stories. History Harvest, then, is an invitation to share your stories.

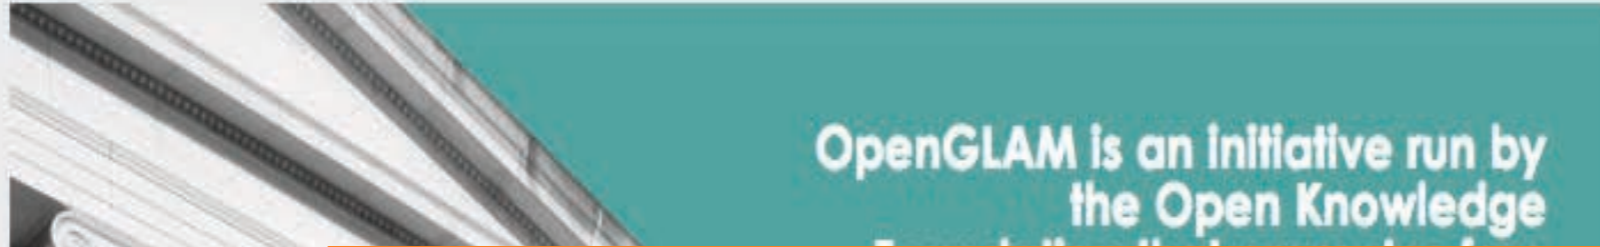

THE FUTURE OF CREATIVE COMMONS
The first decade of CC is over, what's next?
In our new publication The Future of Creative Commons, we lay out the top priorities in all the areas where we work. In the companion piece Dispatches from the Commons, we celebrate the accomplishments of the past year in the CC community.
